ASCO Foundation Donates 50 Laptops to the Ministry of Education

The ASCO Foundation has donated 50 laptops to the Ministry of Education for distribution to schools across Fiji. The handover ceremony was officiated by Honourable Minister for Education, Mr Aseri Radrodro, who emphasised the importance of digital literacy, problem-solving, teamwork, and communication skills for students. He described the donation as both timely and thoughtful, encouraging schools to use the laptops to modernise classrooms and improve student engagement and performance.

Mr Ronald Kumar, Trustee of the ASCO Foundation and CEO of ASCO Motors Fiji, reaffirmed the Foundation's dedication to empowering students through technology. "At ASCO Foundation and ASCO Motors, we believe every child deserves the opportunity to learn, grow, and succeed—regardless of their background or access to resources. This donation is not just about laptops; it's about inclusion, empowerment, and investing in Fiji's future."

The laptops will enable students to engage in interactive, personalised learning experiences, while equipping teachers with tools to deliver dynamic, innovative lessons. This initiative supports the development of critical thinking, creativity, and digital fluency—skills essential for success in today's global economy.

The partnership with Datec Fiji adds a vital layer of sustainability to the program. With professional technical support, schools will be better equipped to keep the devices operational and impactful throughout the academic year.

"This collaboration between the ASCO Foundation, the Ministry of Education, and Datec Fiji is a powerful example of how public-private partnerships can drive national development," added Mr Kumar.

Beyond the classroom, the initiative is expected to have a ripple effect across communities, enhancing digital literacy and expanding access to online learning resources. Through this donation, the ASCO Foundation continues to strengthen its ties with local communities and reinforce its role as a trusted partner in Fiji's educational and social progress.
